Get below the special empty text, and use it anywhere you can't set « nothing as a label » usually. Like iOS folders names, bookmark labels, Windows shortcut names, and more... ADVERTISEMENT Copy Invisible Character Click the above button to copy the blank character to your clipboard. This invisible text looks like a blank space, but actually this is a Unicode transparent character that can be used for any social media platform, website, and app. You can easily copy and paste this invisible letter to use anywhere you want. It can be used to send a blank text messages. The blank character can be used for discord invisible names, WhatsApp, and other social media profile names. List of All Invisible Characters Copy and paste are among the most common — and overlooked — commands found in any operating system, whether it be Windows or MacOS. The function is used to move text in an instant. Still, not everyone knows how to use these features. Thankfully, there are several easy methods for doing so using either your mouse, trackpad, or other peripherals. Here's the rundown on copy and paste. How to copy and paste in Windows 10 using the mouse Although Windows PCs have a unifying theme for copy and paste functionality, there are a few different ways to do it. Depending on the software, you can use the mouse, the keyboard, the menu bar — or a combination of all three — to get the job done. While you can make an argument that some methods are faster than others, the one you choose will mostly come down to personal preference, so we'll break down each one in turn, and you can then pick which is right for you. Quick tips Right-clicking a selected item will usually bring up a menu with the option to Copy. Right-clicking a space will usually bring up a menu with the option to Paste. The keyboard command for copy is Ctrl + C, and the keyboard command for paste is Ctrl + V. Step 1: Properly selecting the content you wish to reproduce is the first step when copying and pasting. If you're looking to copy an image, right-click it and select Copy Image to save a copy to the clipboard. Then, skip to step 3. For text, left-click and drag your mouse cursor over the portion of the document or browser window you wish to highlight. For folders and other items, right-click the item once or left-click and drag a selection box around multiple files. If you want to bring the keyboard in, you can hold Ctrl, click multiple files or click the first item in a list while holding Shift, and then click the final item you want to copy. Step 2: Once the content you wish to copy is highlighted, right-click while hovering over any portion of the chosen content and select Copy from the resulting drop-down menu. Step 3: Once you've copied your chosen image, text, or file, place your cursor in the location you wish to copy it to. Then right-click, and select Paste from the resulting drop-down menu. How to copy and paste in Windows 10 using the keyboard The second method for Windows 10 involves using keyboard commands. Here's the step-by-step process. Step 1: To highlight text with a keyboard, use the Arrow keys to navigate your blinking cursor to the sentence or paragraph you wish to copy, and press the Shift key. Continue to move the cursor over the text you want to duplicate, and a selection box — usually blue — will appear around it. Stop when you have highlighted everything you want. For files and folders, you can use the Tab key to move between sections of the folder you're currently in. When a folder is highlighted, hold down the Shift key and use the Arrow keys to navigate to the image you wish to copy. Images are a little more difficult but use the same principle as above. Using a combination of the Tab and Arrow keys, navigate to the image you wish to select. Press and hold the Shift key, and move your selection over it to highlight. Step 2: Once your file, text, or image is highlighted, hold down the Ctrl key and press the C key to copy it. Though the keyboard command for copying is relatively universal, some software-specific macro commands or shortcuts may interfere with the Windows native keyboard commands. If in doubt regarding the proper key combination, look up the command functions directly within the application's help menu or with a web search. Step 3: Once the content you want is copied, navigate to where you want to put it, and hold down the Ctrl key once again. This time, though, press the V key. Your image, text, or folder should now be pasted right where you want it. How to copy and paste in Windows 11 using the keyboard The third option is to use the menu bar. Many applications have their own menu systems to enable copy and paste, but highlighting what you want to copy will require you to use the native keyboard. All the methods described above for highlighting what you wish to copy. Step 2: Once you've highlighted the content you want to copy, look to the top menu bar in your application or folder, and click the Edit or Home menu. Step 3: Select Copy from the resulting drop-down menu. Step 4: If you've copied something, click the Edit or Home menu again. Step 5: Once you've copied what you want to duplicate, head to that same drop-down menu and select Paste. How to copy and paste in MacOS using the mouse Although Windows and MacOS are different operating systems, they perform copying and pasting similarly. That means it's just as easy, whether you're using the mouse, keyboard, or in-app menus. Quick tip Command + C will copy a highlighted item. Command + V will paste a copied item. Step 1: If you're looking to copy text with your Apple mouse, Magic or not — click and drag the cursor over the portion of the document or webpage you wish to highlight. For files and folders, click the item once. Alternatively, click and drag a selection box around multiple files. To highlight an image easily, you'll need to bring the keyboard in to play. Step 1: Hold the Control key, click on the image, and select Copy Image to duplicate and save it to your clipboard. Then, skip to step 3. Step 2: Once you've highlighted what you want to copy, right-click while hovering over any portion of the chosen content, and select Copy from the resulting drop-down menu. Step 3: Once everything you want is copied, place your cursor in the location you wish to paste the content, hold Control and click, then select Paste from the resulting drop-down menu. How to copy and paste in MacOS using the keyboard No mouse? No worries. You can use a keyboard, too. Step 1: Although it's a little more limited on MacOS than Windows, you can use the Tab key to jump between text boxes for keyboard selection. When you've made it to the section you wish to highlight, hold the Shift key and use the Arrow keys to highlight the text you want to copy. Alternatively, use the mouse to put the pointer where you want it, and then use the above method. Files and folders can be selected in much the same way. For images, using the mouse is going to be your best bet for highlighting. Step 2: Once everything is selected, hold down the Command key and press C to copy. Though that particular shortcut is fairly universal, some program-specific macro commands or shortcuts may interfere with the MacOS native keyboard commands. If in doubt regarding the proper key combination, look up the command functions directly within the application's help menu or through a web search. Step 3: Once everything you want is copied, place your cursor in the location you wish to paste the content, hold down the Command key, and press the V key to paste it in. How to copy and paste in Mac OS using the menu bar Finally, you can use the menu bar to copy and paste in MacOS. Here's how. Step 1: Highlighting is not something most applications do by themselves, so your best bet is to highlight the text, image files, or folders using one of the methods mentioned above. Step 2: After you've highlighted the data you want to copy, whether it's an image, text, or both, navigate to the Gear icon or Edit menu. Step 3: Select Copy from the resulting drop-down menu. You may find this process varies slightly from application to application, but it will be the same in most cases. Step 4: Copy your selected data to the clipboard and then, click on the file or location where you'll paste your copied information. Step 5: Click on the Gear icon if you're using Mac OS or the Edit menu if you're using Windows. Step 6: You will then see a drop-down list of options from which you will select Paste to add what you have copied to your file. You will save a lot of time and stress when you realize that copying and pasting eliminate the need for manually typing out quotes or waiting for a picture or textbox to download so that you can use it. While browser extensions can help you copy and paste material knowing how to do it yourself is essential for productivity. By following these easy guidelines, you will be able to copy and paste any written or visual content to whichever program you choose.
