On the night of marriage, Aarti comes to know that she has cleared the PCS exam. On Abha's and maternal uncle Jogi's (Manoj Pahwa) provocation, Aarti decides to run-away from her house without informing Satyendra or his family, Satyendra is shocked to know about the incident and is left heartbroken. During the end, a fight erupts as Jogi forces Satyendra's family to return dowry money, Satyendra agrees to pay back which leaves his family to undergo hard times with loss of face in the society, and his mother Shanti being forced selling all her jewelry to repay money to Aarti's family. Five years later, Aarti who is now a PCS Officer is successfully moving up in her career. She even helps her best friend Neelam to get a job in the same office. Aarti is accused of taking a bribe and suspended till her case is resolved. During the investigation, Aarti discovers to her horror that the officer in charge of her case is Satyendra, who has now become an IAS Officer. She is shocked to find out the changed attitude and lack of sympathy he has for her. Throughout the investigation process, the evidence Satyendra finds leans towards Aarti taking a bribe. He makes matters worse for Aarti by humiliating and questioning Aarti's motives, to which she responds by finally breaking down and confronts him privately. Satyendra gives her an option and asks for the bribe, though Aarti confirms she doesn't have it. The conversation that they have was actually being recorded and as Satyendra watches it, he orders that Aarti be arrested for trying to manipulate the investigation. During the trial, Satyendra replays the video that was recorded of Aarti and Kukreja, which continues to play after Aarti leaves the compound. It is revealed by Satyendra's explanation of the video that Kukreja, Neelam, and the broker Rakesh were friends and that they've been selling unused government land to businesses under Aarti's name. They were able to because of Neelam misusing Aarti's trust and by getting papers signed in her ignorance. As the trial ends, Aarti is found to be innocent and Kukreja, Neelam, and the broker Rakesh are arrested. Aarti is shocked to find out that Satyendra saved her life by sending her to prison and also saved her from jail time by revealing the truth.
