Note that if you fill the compost bin up with only Tomatoes, it will make Rotten tomatoes, not compost. This is because all composts decrease the chance that your crop will become diseased, increase your harvest, and provide a small amount of experience when used - the extent to which your compost will do each of these things varies depending on its tier. Throughout Gielinor there are many Farming patches wherein your seeds can be planted. If your plant dies, you can get another seed for free from Horacio. You can only have one Amulet of Nature at a time and it can only be assigned to one patch at any time. Remember that the flowers must remain grown within their plot to protect the other plants. As use of Compost only decreases the chance of your crops becoming diseased, some crops require more drastic measures to completely prevent disease. Note that storage is universal across all Tool leprechauns, you do not need to store items with each individual one. There are three ways you can avoid disease: Stand around and water the plants when required. Juju farming potion - Consumed to provide you with additional produce harvested. Just like the Amulet of Nature, it will 'hum' to let you know if your patch has fully grown, diseased, or dead. While you do not HAVE to water your plants, not doing so makes them more prone to catch diseases and die unless you cure them. Bush seeds can be planted within Bush patches only. *3 produce are harvested instead of the typical 1 produce for Flowers. Once it is complete, it can be opened and emptied. Items that will create Supercompost include: Alternatively, one can create a bin of regular Compost and turn it into Supercompost by using a dose of Compost potion on it.
